News Review Marks 53rd Anniversary

This week the Greenbelt News Review will begin its fifty-fourth year of continuous publication.

Originally, a letter-size mimeographed publication consisting of sixteen pages, then titled the Greenbelt Co-operator, the paper began publication on November 24, 1937 — six weeks after the first families had occupied their homes.

History

The early Pioneers recognized the immediate need for a news medium to keep people informed of local events and to provide a forum for the exchange of views. They laid down the principles that still guide the actions of the present News Review — a non-partisan non-profit cooperative endeavor, whose aims are to print the news accurately and fairly and to respect the Greenbelt "good neighbor" philosophy of life.

In January 1938 the Federal Government (which owned Greenbelt at that time) made space available at the town commercial center, free of cost and also loaned much-needed furniture, typewriters, and office equipment. The paper moved its office four times before finally coming to rest in the present basement office at 15 Parkway.

With the withdrawal of the Federal Government from town, Greenbelt Homes, Inc., through its wholly owned subsidiary, Greenbelt Development Corporation, continued the Federal policy of providing free office space with the paper reimbursing the corporation for out-of-pocket expenses.

Free Delivery

An important development in the history of the newspaper was the decision to deliver the Co-operator free of charge to every home in town, beginning with the issue of September 7, 1939.

The policy of free distribution remained unchanged except for an unsuccessful effort to go to a subscription basis in 1953. Successive boards of directors have considered that the most important thing is to get the paper to each household in the city.

As We Are

Although some readers may recall when the News Review had only two pages, the standard size today is 12 and may be as large as 28 pages. The deciding factor each week is the number of inches of advertising which determines the number of pages that can be paid for.

At present 10,400 free copies of the News Review are distributed weekly to homes in Greenbelt, including Springhill Lake, Greenbriar, Greenbrook, Greenwood Village, Windsor Green, and Hunting Ridge, and to Greenbelt office buildings and shopping centers.

For those who have wondered how the paper gets out each week, the staff is largely volunteer (or, at least, minimally paid) and, in the Greenbelt tradition, organized as a labor cooperative. The paper is unconnected with the city government, the other cooperatives in the city, and with Greenbelt Homes, Inc. The paper gratefully accepts support from many segments of the community — from the city in the form of city advertising, from GHI in corporate ads and in housing for its operations, and from the citizens when the financial pinch gets too tight. However, it is essentially self-supporting.

The paper lives by its advertising revenues which cover all normal operations. Hence, the often-repeated admonition to its readers to "Patronize our Advertisers."

Staff

There have been 39 changes in editorship during the paper's 53 years. For the last 18 years, the position has been held by Mary Lou Williamson. There are now 44 staff members, most of whom have joined the paper as their contribution to their community's activities.

An innovation begun 11 years ago, augmenting the staff through an agreement with the Departments of English and Journalism of the University of Maryland to accept placement of student interns, is being continued to the News Review's advantage.

Interns have participated in the regular work of writing and editing copy for this paper. The program is sponsored by the Alfred M. Skolnik Memorial Fund. This fund also provides for a yearly $100 Savings Bond to be awarded to an outstanding Eleanor Roosevelt High School graduate interested in the field of writing.

Greenbelters Wrote In Four Names in Election

by Elaine Skolnik

In the November 6 general election, some Greenbelters took the time to write in their preferences for various offices. In the State's Senate race, for example, where incumbent Democrat Leo Green won handily, Terezia "Terry" Bohrer garnered 31 votes and Donna Jo Campbell collected 17. Bohrer lost to Green in a close primary race.

Nine Greenbelters also remained longer in the polling booths on election day to cast their votes for City Councilwoman Antoinette "Toni" Bram in the State Delegate contest. A Democrat, Bram was unsuccessful in the primary in capturing one of the three delegate seats held by incumbent Democrats Mary Conroy, Joan Pitkin and Charles "Buzz" Ryan.

Twenty-nine Greenbelt voters in Precincts 3 and 6 wrote in the name of their preference—Betty Timer—for the Board of Education seat in District 2. Greenbelt Suzanne Plogman, the incumbent, had no opposition in the primary and general elections. School board elections are non-partisan.

According to a spokesperson for the County Board of Elections, only Campbell filed a "certificate of candidacy." Write-in candidates who officially file by the night before the election have their names posted on election day. Their votes are also tallied and recorded during the official vote count after the polls closed. Write-in candidates who have not officially filed have their votes counted later.

Co-op Officials Report Good Year, Refund Planned

by Joe Timer

This year's annual meeting of Greenbelt Consumer Cooperative covered a wide array of issues including financial and operational updates, the environment, parking concerns at the supermarket, the Co-op's role in the senior housing initiative and a proposal for a Co-op sponsored cafeteria in the new community center. Some 60 members attended the October 27 meeting at the Municipal building. Two incumbents — Jim Cassels and Mike Burchik — were elected to 3-year terms to the Board of Directors. Pat Schreiber and Bruce Bowman were elected to one-year terms replacing Chuck Sarahan and Dorrie Bates; both resigned during the last fiscal year.

Finances

Treasurer Joe Timer reported that the Co-op was in excellent shape financially. Combined operating income was $87,904, down 49% from the previous year. Sales during the 1990 fiscal year ending July 31, 1990 totalled $7.3 million, 4.5% higher than the previous 12 months. Supermarket sales increased 8.6%.

Because of its profitable year, the Co-op earmarked $67,907 as a patronage refund for members. Chairman Jim Cassels noted, "We hope to distribute the cash portion of the refund in early December. The patronage refund amounts to about 2% of member purchases during the operating year." Timer mentioned that, in its 74 months of operations, GCC had declared patronage refunds totalling $526,480.

Operations

Manager Dave Meadows noted that sales at the service station decreased 17.5%. With no gas sales during the last 3 months of the fiscal year and a $17,000 expense related to tank problems, the station lost $10,795. Meadows added, "The station reported record high levels of service work during the last 5 months. With the gas pumps now operational, gasoline sales are approaching previous levels." Several members complimented the service station staff for its reliable, friendly service.

Manager Bob Davis reported that the supermarket exceeded all its goals during FY90. "To attract and retain qualified staff, Co-op improved its salary and benefits. This included the addition of a flexible retirement program with contributions tied to the co-op's income," reported Davis. The new computer in the pharmacy is operational. Planned improvements for the current fiscal year include adding a bailing machine which will allow the Co-op to recycle boxes and should reduce trash expenses by 40 percent. "Our focus remains providing value and variety in a clean, attractive place to shop," stated Davis.

Several members expressed their concerns regarding parking problems at the supermarket. Members favored more 2-hour parking and better parking enforcement. Several suggested a petition to the City communicating membership's concerns. Jim Cassels stated that the Co-op was currently working with the City and recommended that any membership action be postponed until the city's response can be evaluated.

Other Items

Betty Timer reported that the Education Committee has been working with Bob Davis in adding products produced from recycled materials. Also, Co-op is now selling string bags and canvas bags at cost to offer patrons an alternative to the plastic bag. After the meeting, five members joined the Education Committee.

Jim Cassels reported that the senior housing group was focusing on a site near the new community center. Members questioned GCC's role in this project, stating that the Co-op never formally adopted a position on this issue. Barry Schlesinger recommended that, once details for the selected site are known, the membership be informed and given the opportunity to determine the Co-op's role.

Jim Cassels recommended that the Co-op consider operating a cafeteria for the new community center. Various members questioned both the financial and operational viability of this cafeteria. Another issue was meeting the special dietary requirements of the seniors who would frequent that facility. Cassels stated that a committee would be meeting with the architects for the community center to discuss both the housing and cafeteria projects.

Esther Webb, Wayne Williams, and Frances Haker won door prizes, which were $25 merchandise certificates. Other door prizes included canvas bags (Elizabeth Pels, Paula Windsor and Alice Gonthier); string bags (May Shubert, Mr. Shubert and Eli Crupain) and an oil change (Betty Timer).

Aggravated

To the Editor:

Last week's letter accusing me of "tongue lashing a group of Greenbelt citizens who had just finished expressing their concerns regarding the design of the new school" made me go back and look at the tape of that July 24 meeting. Forgive me if it was felt I attacked all opponents of our school plan at the meeting. My tongue lashing was aimed at those who compared me to 'Bull' Connor, accused me of a "snow job" and of conducting less than an "open and above board process" on this school design.

I have never seen such an open design process for a new school. I was aggravated that nearly a year after we had decided to go with a one story design that advocates of a two-story school should suddenly appear before the city council, regarding a school board concern. They never had the courtesy to come to me. Only a handful of neighbors that I identified at the meeting had raised concerns about the trees, the pond and the location of the soccer field. After years of more than 20 meetings on this project, three of them with your neighbors on the site, I believed it was time we build a school. We managed to move the soccer field and play area to accommodate the neighbors, eliminated the baseball field, minimized the storm water pond's impact, granted at least temporary amnesty to the neighbors who moved their backyards onto public land, created new buffers where none exist and saved nearly all the trees on the site.

These meetings were all initiated by me to be responsive to the community, including those who opposed the project. I have never been as responsive to an issue as I have on this one. So,

Falling Colors

by Christina O'Boyle

While cutting one last bunch of flowers in mid November I look around at the surviving roses, impatiens and chrysanthemums, then way up into the color filled trees. With colorless months ahead, I am grateful for the slowness of autumn's arrival and departure. How many mornings have we checked our gardens, wondering if the first frost finally came last night?

The Bradford pear trees on Southway take the season's arrivals and departures seriously—white flowers in spring, green canopy in summer, and now leaves of dark purplish reds. As those begin to fall, though, we start to feel winter. So now we wait and do some planning.

Anticipation is the stuff of season watching. We can't wait for cool days to rescue us from the sticky humidity of July and August. By January we long for the empty trees to burst with leaves shimmering with the sun's warmth again. Like a pair of barometers my neighbor and I spent September forecasting what we would each accomplish once the cool weather came. Now we lean over the fence, comforting each other with warm weather ideas. Nice cycles these seasons; our plans and longings pull us into the next.

And so there is one last mum arrangement for the dinner table, picked while looking over my shoulder at the approaching cold. Although winter comes, it brings the promise of colorful holidays. And of snow.

Imagine a time traveler from the year 2000, who comes to visit the News Review offices every so many years, this time on the occasion of the paper's 53rd Anniversary. Our traveler looks around with a feeling of déjà vu. Nothing much seems to have changed on this go-round. Oh, there's a computer instead of rateltrap typewriters which sat in that very same office, but the time trekker hardly notices, being too busy greeting many of the same faces that appeared before. Do they look the same? Well, almost. News Review staff members never age—they just turn another page.

The audio portion of the time visit sounds familiar, too. "Who's got the City Council meeting?" "If we print this letter, we had better..." "Can somebody read the name on this copy?" And that's just the polite part, when the stories don't relate to developers.

Our temporal tourist remembers when the paper first began publication, on November 24, 1937, the work of preparation being accomplished at the homes of staff members and then at offices made available in the town center. Two more moves brought the paper up (or should that be down?) to the presently occupied basement office, where the hard-working volunteer staff still has the aim to print the news fairly and accurately, occasional gremlins notwithstanding.

The time traveler has the greatest desire to jump into the future, to see whether ye kindly editor and ye faithful staff still continue to put out a weekly paper at absolutely no charge to its readership! Will there be three dimensional illustrations? Will there be delivery by robots? What will the next 53 years bring? Tempus is fugiting, but tune in November 2043 and find out. The News Review will be there!

Our Neighbors

by Linda Savaryn, 474-5285

A happy birthday to Marian Harrison who will be 80 on Thanksgiving Day.

Congratulations to several neighbors who were winners of the beautiful balconies/gardens contest. During September a representative committee from Greenbriar Phase I spent an afternoon walking through the grounds and around the buildings of Phase I to select the winners.

The winners in the gardens category were Jane Estabrook, first place, and Gwynne Blunden, second place. Gene and Wally Winchester, along with Dick and Claire Pilski, tied for third place. Donald Oberg won in the balcony class.

All winners will receive gift certificates from Behnke's to be used for the continued beautification of their gardens and balconies.

Some new neighbors have arrived just in time to celebrate their first Thanksgiving Day. Katherine Joan Zukauskas was born November 6, weighing 6 lbs., 7 oz. She is the first child of Michael Paul and Lee-Ellen Zukauskas of Crescent Road.

The following newest neighbors were born at Holy Cross Hospital. Warren Robert Garrison, Jr., was born October 24, weighing in at 7 lbs., 4½ ozs. He is the son of Aimee Heller and Warren Garrison of Westway.

Planning Ahead.

Life today is so fast paced, sometimes it's difficult to find enough time to plan everything out in advance. That's why we've prepared a special booklet entitled, "Planning Ahead," covering such important subjects as the advantages of planning ahead, the importance of a will, and the purpose of a funeral. There are even sections to organize personal biographical, financial and legal information for your family. If you would like a complimentary copy of "Planning Ahead," please contact our funeral home or simply return the coupon below.

Please send me your free planning guide entitled, "PLANNING AHEAD."

ERHS STUDENTS TRAVEL TO JAPAN

Eleanor Roosevelt High School students David Ball, Eileen Coyle and Ayanna Dunn, along with principal Gerald Boarman and teacher Anne Cherry recently visited Japan as part of a continuing people-to-people exchange under the Maryland Sisters Program.

The group was scheduled to visit participating schools in Ka-

The Maryland Sisters Program encourages cooperation and understanding through people-to-people exchanges and sister relationships based on common interests among cities, counties and the State of Maryland and similar regions in foreign countries.
